Description

White, oval ceramic serving dish with handles on either end. Along the circumference of the dish is a continuous alternation pattern of brown arches and dots. Along the rim and handles is a thin green line. At the handles this line becomes more decorative with swirls, arches, and dots. Each handle also features two round holes. In the center of the dish is a red, orange, blue, green, and purple colored bird surrounded by a floral motif of pink and orange roses and green leaves. Surrounding this imagery is an elliptical green line. Along the bowled portion of the dish are four equally spaced, identical floral motifs of a pink rose flanked by orange roses and green leaves. The glaze has crazing, and the handles are discolored to an off-white. This pattern resembles both CAN182 and CAN188. There is a stamped green Maker's Mark in the center of the underside of the dish.
