Description

Rectangular abstract collage with uneven edges. The base is two interleaving layers of printed paper (most likely from a magazine), with layers of different colored tissue paper adhered overtop. The lower three-quarters of the proper left edge is dark blue, with a pink section to its proper right on the lower half of the section. The upper edge is bare of tissue paper, with the base layer showing through. The majority of the composition is light blue and white, with the proper right lower corner a medium light blue with section of tan paper (most likely the same as the base) adhered overtop.
